AUG8BURG SUIT OF ARMOR

The Imperial city of Augsburg was renowned for armor makers, which included the Helmschmied family and master armorer Lorenz. This suit is reminiscent of a 16th century design, which would have been in the style manufactured by that illustrious foundry. Though this suit is not made to be worn, it still maintains all the esthetic beauty of a full harness of armor. Handmade of 18 gauge mild steel, this imposing suit is one of the most affordable we have ever offered. The artisans of Windlass Steelcrafts® have worked on the suit and have upgraded the look, making these better than most of the more affordable armors on the market. Comes complete with a heavy, museum quality wooden pedestal base, decorative waist skirt and complete wooden interior form. The helmet is able to accept up to three decorative plumes. (sold separately). Will be shipped motor carrier ground. #300508...Reg. $1,295...Holiday Sale Price $995 (Addl. s/h)

DURANDAL THE SWORD OF ROLAND

This mythical sword was given to King Charlemagne, King of the Franks, by an angel and was then given to his most fierce paladin, Roland. There are countless ideas of what this blade would have looked like. We have decided to go with a more fantastical medieval interpretation of this sword. The wide blade is hand-forged from 1065 high-carbon steel. Both the metal cross guard, grip band and pommel have been lavishly plated in sterling silver. The large pommel also sports the coat of arms of Charlemagne on the one side, with the Face of a lion on the other, representing the bravery of Roland. Grip is wrapped in blood red leather with an embossed scrolling pattern. Sword comes with a heavy period scabbard and double belts, also made of the same matching blood red leather. Made by Windlass Steelcrafts®. #501511...$425 × 🖉

FRANCESCA AXE

This axe is a beautiful example of a Frankish weapon used during the earlier part of the Middle Ages. An axe like this was also carried by Germanic armies into battle and was used in hand-to-hand combat, as well as a lethal throwing weapon. Our version, manufactured by Windlass Steelcrafts® has a rustic forge finish on the blade and a curved wooden shaft, making this feel great in your hand. #601027...$45

Stage Combat Swords By Windlass®

We've been asked for years for a good set of historically researched swords to perform with on stage. We wanted both authenticity and durability - the kind of sword you can bang edge to edge to complete your performance with confidence and look good doing it. Popular in Europe, we've brought out 3 styles that have the thick edges and rolled tips needed for live steel action. The Champion and The Templar can be used as a one-handed or hand-and-a-half sword, while The Knight Errant is a good two-handed sword. Strong, full tangs with peened construction and using solid steel or brass parts. Leather wrapped wood grips allow for a strong hold. High carbon steel blades provide years of rugged use. A leather scabbard with metal accents is included. Don't just act, perform!
